

Graphic Design in London and Berlin 2013

Why Graphic Design?

-Study Graphic design in London, a city whose design literacy is nurtured by generations-old signage and graphics of the London Underground, and the largest concentration of design and advertising firms in the world!

- Study at the Academy for Illustration and Design in Berlin, Germany with visiting instructor Armin Knoll

What courses can I take?

ART 4541 Graphic Design in London and Berlin*

ART 7500 Graphic Design in London and Berlin*

*Pre-requisites for ART 4541 and 7500 requires instructors consent

Program Duration: June 30- July 30, 2013

Application Deadline: March 16, 2013

Program Highlights

- Visit a variety of museums and galleries, including: the Design Museum, Barbican Art Gallery, The Saatchi Gallery, The Royal College of Art, etc.
- Hear lectures by guest speakers who are experienced in the field
- Visit design studios, such as Spin, Eye Magazine, Why Not Associates, Baseline Magazine, etc.

Costs

Estimated at $3,900
plus LSU tuition and airfare.

Housing, some meals, excursions, travel within the program, and health insurance are included in the program fee. You should plan for additional expenditures, such as snacks or refreshments. You will also need extra money for travel and meals if you plan to spend weekends traveling, as well as some spending money for occasional outings with your friends and for souvenirs. The exchange rate may change, so your costs may go up or down! Tuition and university fees as well as the air fare are not included!

Contact Information:
Program Director:
Richard B. DoubleDay

rdoubleday@lsu.edu
225-578-7842

APA Office:

103 Hatcher Hall
Baton Rouge, LA 70803
(225) 578-6801

studyabroad@lsu.edu

<http://www.facebook.com/lsustudyabroad>

LSU